The Border-Land of Dreams—How to Sleep.

From This Eye's Magazine.

What Professor Ball calls "the voluntary pleasures of falling asleep" is so very rank and odious to most people that it is difficult to speak of it without disgust. One of those that you cannot fall asleep until you cease thinking. The common recipe for the securing of sleep—to go to counting hundred after hundred until one becomes insensible—is said to be invaluable, because it is said to exercise thought in such a way as to put the mind to sleep.

It is impossible to go to counting hundred after hundred in quite other directions, and yet the imagination pictures, reciting the events of the day, and so forth. The monotony of counting certainly tends to induce sleep, and so far lessens the chances of the intrusion of consciousness.

But the notion that one must cease to think before one can sleep only a vulgar error.

Certain operations of the mind—of memory, reason, judgment, and above all, of imagination—do not even after sleep continue.

And the imagination, in spite of all efforts to restrain it, goes on in spite of all efforts to restrain it.

In sleep we dream, and call it before our eyes, just as we do when we are awake.

We reason with them, and sometimes, in an inexplicable mental freak, we allow them to puzzle and perplex us with an argument or a contradiction which they have to explain to us.

As we judge of their appearance and conduct, and we imagine an incessant panorama of action in which they are engaged. Frequently the mental products of sleep are next day available to us.

We are possessed of the epiphany which one or other of the characters in the sleep dream.

The disappointed and dozing lover dreams of his girl friend, and wakes up with his wife.

The man who has been a soldier in the army of the South, and who has been a soldier in the army of the North, dreams of his wife.

The man who has been a sailor in the navy, and who has been a sailor in the army, dreams of his ship.

VERY LATEST NEWS.

GENERAL NEWS.

New York, August 21. Judge Benedict yesterday granted a stay of proceedings in regard to the disposition of ammunition wagons, &c., belonging to the Cuban Junta which Marshal Calvo was about to sell to the Cuban Junta, received by the owner of the same, Chase, Chase and Taylor.

The amount of taxes, or penalties, independent of taxes, accrued by a large number of brokers living in Brooklyn, who failed to make proper monthly returns to the revenue officers, and against whom suits have been commenced, exceeded $400,000.

Arrived, the steamer Dutchland, from Bremen, and the North American, from Hamburg.

The Trade says it is expected on good ground that Cuban expeditions will leave within ten days, either from this port or Boston.

Preparations have been going on, for the last two weeks among the Cubans of this city, and it is believed that the two or three expeditions on a small scale made from Florida were made as mere bluffs to divert attention of the direction in which the work is going on.

Marshal Barlow has been for the last two weeks taking extraordinary precautions against any violation of the neutrality laws.

The steamer Arizona, from Aspinwall, brings $50,000 specie. No news.

The yacht Meteor sailed yesterday for Europe.

The banking house of Thomas F. Morris & Co., at Yonkers, suspended operations Thursday. It is supposed that Mr. Stake, the cashier, is a defaulter to the amount of $40,000.

The Wm. M. Tweed Democratic Association has resolved to invite Mr. Belmont to resign the chairmanship of the Democratic Committee.

The steamer Lafayette, for Europe, took $50,000 in specie.

Judge James delivered an opinion yesterday sustaining the Federal Government in the case of one hundred and thirty brokers residing in Brooklyn, as regards the payment of tax on capital.

The Stock Board, owing to the best of the weather, adjourned after the first session till Friday.

The steamer North America, from Rio Janeiro July 25, arrived to day. The screw of the steamship and gunboat Kansas were at Rio Janeiro all well, it was reported that Ministers McMahon and Worthington, with their families, would return to the United States by way of Europe.

NEW YORK, August 21. Timothy G. Churchill, Treasurer of the Lincoln Monument Fund, publishes a letter to day in which he states that a contract was made some time ago with H. K. Brown, a trained sculptor and author of the Washington monument in Union Square, this city, and that he has already furnished a plaster cast of the late President, which was accepted by the committee and sent to the foundry to be cast in bronze. Mr. Brown has been paid $10,000 on account, and the balance of the funds, $11,000, invested in registered 30 bonds.

Another special from Nassau, N. P., Aug. 13, via Key West, gives the ruling of the Admiralty Court in the long contested case of the Spanish Salvador, a vessel which, under the neutrality laws, that she was duly cleared according to port regulations, and that the vessel be delivered up; each party to pay his own costs.

It is announced that the new and increased tariff of freight charges on the railroads to the West goes into operation to day, and the ruinous competition between these roads is terminated by a compromise.

A dispatch to the Herald from Havana, dated August 19, via Key West, states that intelligence from Cozumel Tuesday reported that Macario ... But few troopers are in the vicinity, and they are unable to check the patro, who are destroying all property belonging to Spain for us.

The fight for United States Senator in Tennessee seems to be between Andrew Johnson and E. Etheridge.

The drinking, smoking and chewing of the workingmen of New York costs them $6,750,000 per annum.

Prussia, of all the governments with which we have relations, is the only one that owns a house in Washington.

Hon. Hannibal Hamlin is a private in a Bangor military company, and is always on hand for parade or other duty.

The cranberry lands in Ocean county, New Jersey, alone, are this year valued at $2,500,000—the crop is 70,000 bushels.

COURTESY OF CROWN, THAT PRACTICED BY WIND.

From the Dayton (Ohio) Ledger, Aug. 17.

Yesterday afternoon, about 5 o'clock, while Sunday school services were going on in the church, at the corner of First and West Streets, there came, with a roar, a mighty gust of wind, followed by a heavy rain, so violent, which for a moment it seemed as though it would scatter everything before it. The performance was over in less than half an hour, when all at once the great gales were hushed from the ground, and considerable cracking was heard through the entire mass, which spread great consternation among the vast number of people gathered in the streets. It was evident that the window would instantly burst if the pressure was applied outside, so held on to the ropes. Some fine man-of-war men of the navy on the side, and attempted to hold it from blowing over, but it was entirely impossible. In another instant the ropes snapped, the centre pole came unfastened, and went, it seemed, to the large pavilion was dashed to the ground, upsetting at the same time two of the wagons containing wild animals. At this point several wagons careered out. Five animals were lost. This terrific scene, added to the excitement caused by the noise of the engine and breaking of the slate, and screaming of women and children, made spectators more compounded, and the greatest danger we ever had seemed to witness. The people were now all terrified, and fled everywhere in the wildest confusion. Amid scenes of intense alarm a thousand were sick children who were trying to extricate themselves from beneath the broken benches, and crawling out from under the cars. Mothers and fathers seized their children and frantically rushed their way out as best they could. Many of the children were pressed down in the enclosure and crammed in the dirt; some were very much bruised. Many men and women fled to adjacent houses and closed the doors behind them to escape from being overtaken by the wild animals which were running wild in pursuit of them. Two persons were seriously injured. W. H. Mitchell, who was thrown from his wagon, while attempting to support a boy, and a little girl, whose name we do not ascertain, had her arm broken, and received a severe wound on the head.

Personal.

English Biblical critics are discussing whether the glass referred to by St. Paul, through which his hearers saw darkly, was "a sort of semi-transparent glass, or one of our artificial crystals," or a mirror; whether it was a glass to be looked through, or only into. The latter view is taken by Archdeacon French.

Figures say "while London raised a monument to the wealthy American Mr. Peabody, the Pope has ordered a cross to the Yankees as a university bequest." On his voyage to Rome, Mr. Peabody presented to the Treasury of Pope Pius IX, for his poor, $100,000. A fact curious to note is that Mr. Peabody is a Protestant. Another "curious fact" is that Mr. Peabody did not do it.

Hence Greeley's knowledge of agricultural affairs is improving. The turnips which he raised last year only cost him one dollar and twelve cents each.

Simmons, the Harvard orator, learned to row on the Concord River under the eye of Thoreau and Emerson, and he is more or less a cousin to the latter.

The municipality of Trenton has voted a sum of $1,000 francs toward the erection of a monument to Rossetti.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe is preaching on the "Confidence and Difference between Philosophy and Religion."

The Chief Justice is now at Narragansett, on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Sprague.

A keen observer has observed that Beecher caught the hay fever by taking the text from Timothy.

Boston, just now, has three live English lords, all revelling at the Rover House, viz., Lord Waterford, Lord Berkley, and Lord Parker. The inhabitants of the Commonwealth may now appropriate the old woman's expression of "Oh, lovely, Massachusetts!"

A boat race between a Miss Ward and a Miss Sawyer, which the latter won, is the latest sensation at Martha's Vineyard. As the winner came up to the floating wharf, so many people gathered on it that it sank under them and sixteen men and women were immersed to the neck.
